BEDS ABROAD.

Summary of a Traveler's Experience in the Line of Beds.

The Continental Bed—Double Beds Rare in Europe—India and Japan—Typical Bed of the Orient.

[Foreign Cor. Inter Ocean.]

At the very top of this clean sheet of paper, before I have dulled my indignation by any discussion of side issues, I desire to placard my protest against the European bed. Let it be recorded that a room in a European hotel does contain a bed. When you hire a room you have to set up housekeeping for yourself—going out and purchasing soap, candles, comb and brush, letter-paper, etc. Tons usually prefers buying them outside of the hotel; but I believe the bed is usually included as a part of the furniture of the room. Whatever else there may be deficient, let it be set down that the bed is on hand. I have yet to discover a place, also, where a certain amount of water is not allowed to each hotel guest. Let justice be done though the heavens fall.

The continental bed is good enough, what there is of it, and there is enough of it, such as it is. There is not enough of it, such as it ought to be, however. In other words, it ends too quick. After thoroughly testing several score of them I am convinced that, as a rule there ought to be a few more inches put on the average bed. To be sure I can just manage to wedge myself in between the head board and the foot board, but I always think when I commit myself to the arms of Morpheus what if I should swell up during the night like a soaked codfish under the influence of this lachrymal weather? And I am not a Titan in stature, either.

But the chief feature of the continental bed against which I wish to launch the invectives of my outraged manhood is its quilt. There is a sheet, a thin counterpane, and then a slender, puffy quilt filled with feathers, a little larger than a pillow. It is sufficiently warm and light, but so small that the least motion may jostle it overboard. You carefully poise this curiosity upon the pit of your stomach, and then lie perfectly quiet for a few moments. The result is most gratifying. But presently you tire of this lying-still process, and discover that you are uncomfortable. This is an alarming discovery, for now you can not be content until you have shifted your position, and the moment you do so that dumpling of a feather quilt loses its equilibrium. Perhaps you get to sleep before any such accident occurs, which is a remarkable stroke of luck; but toward midnight you awake to find that the aforesaid quilt has sauntered off into one corner of the room.

There is one remedy. You can get a dictionary and put it on top of the quilt; but this readers it impossible for you to breathe, and though if may be some satisfaction to you to have thus circumvented the obstinate quilt, it is quite inconvient to be unable to breathe. Besides, the doctors say that it is not conducive to longevity to be deprived of the capacity to breathe. I believe many fellow-sufferers will bear me out in these statements; many who have twined their feet around the lower dash-board, and clutched in wild desperation at an illusive quilt.

But, really, the round-the-world traveler might fill a book with his experiences in the line of beds, and then have said nothing about the novel tussles with native beds. After leaving San Francisco I slept on slender bedsteads of iron or brass until I reached Vienna a period of ten months. Never once during all this time do I remember having seen a wooden bedstead, and only once or twice a double bedstead, (in missionary homes.) Tropical climates and tropical insects are death on wooden furniture. Even in the frequented parts of Europe double beds are rare.

After leaving San Francisco I slept under musquito nettings until I reached Athens, except at Hong Kong and in the Himalayas and Japanese mountains, where insects do not thrive. Thus miserable is a large part of the world made by such commonplace pests as musquitoes. The musquitoes were especially virulent in Egypt and Calcutta. As for fleas, give the chromo to Palestine without a moment's hesitation. Japan and Asia Minor are bad enough, but in Palestine the pestiferous things compel even the hardy Bedouins to move their camps.

In some parts of India travelers are expected to carry their own sheets, counterpane and pillowcase, just as you must always do in a railway carriage there if you propose to sleep en route on one of the hanging shelves or cushioned seats. This is literally taking up your bed and riding. In Japan I had screens ornamented with painted storks around my couch while stopping at the civilized European hotel. In the interior two flea-infested blankets or "futons" spread on the floor constituted my bed, while I usually rolled up a third to put under my head rather than use one of the native wooden pillows shaped like a double-end flat-iron, with a tapered curve adapted to support the neck. The wooden pillow was suggestive of the guillotine to my mind, and on the whole scarce preferable to the guillotine. Beside this bed was the andon, a square paper lantern on a frame two feet high, with a saucer of grease and burning taper inside—the inevitable all-night companion of the sleeping Jap.

The typical bed of the Orient for European and American usage is a slender iron apparatus, some four feet wide or less, with tall iron rods at each corner, connected above, designed to support the musquito netting. Most often the netting hangs over this iron frame-work, and loops each way on the side by which you are wont to enter. This arrangement looks well, but it is a mockery, a delusion and a snare. The musquitoes have no trouble whatever in entering where the front strips overlap, and around the upright rods at the bottoms where the netting is tacked in. The ideal arrangement is a netting as fine as cheese-cloth, suspended on the inside of the frame-work, and so long that it can pass completely under the mattress below.

I should not neglect to say that I have also slept on a steamer's deck in tropic calms, on divans in monasteries, on the floor and even on the ground in Asia Minor, and I might almost add on horseback during night rides in Palestine. In India a native swayed a punkah over me all night while I slept, and at Canton, the island of Shameen, where I sojourned, was guarded by 500 soldiers every night, while ghastly ruins of palaces on every hand attested the fury of the Cantonese mob, from which they were supposed to give protection.

Window Pictures.

[The Current.]

Complaint is properly made against the exhibition of obscene pictures by some newsdealers, the demoralizing effect being noted in crowds they attract; but the same crowd will stand and study almost any window picture, whether it has a bad or good motive. This is an indication, in a small way, of the value a free public art gallery would be to a community as an educating agency.

KNOWLEDGE OF NOSES.

Meaning of the Different Forms—Big Noses of the Big-Brained.

[Mary O. Stanton in The Argonaut.]

Lavater, the eminent physiognomist, in one of his essays, says: "I have never seen a nose with a broad back, whether arched or rectilinear, that did not appertain to an extraordinary man. We may examine thousands of countenances and numbers of portraits of superior men before we find such a one."

The busts, pictures, and statues portraying the features and personality of the most celebrated generals, statesmen, orators, philosophers, scientists, and architects, which are exhibited in the art galleries of the world, reveal to us—if art can be relied on—that the faces of Galen, Hippocrates, Aristotle, Alexander, Cicero, Archimedes, Julius Cæsar, Demosthenes, Cato, Lucretius, Sesostris, Plato, Josephus, and many other men of eminence, possessed unusually large noses, many of them "broad on the back," as Lavater expresses it, and not one exhibits an undeveloped or small nasal organ. These noses vary in form, but can be classified at sight by one understanding the meaning of the forms of the nose. All these men were master-minds in different departments of thought and action.

We will now return to more modern times, and recall to the mind the results of the physiognomies of the more recent men of intellect—masters in art, science, government, literature, and leadership. We shall find the field quite as rich as that of the ancients. Let it be understood that each department of activity has a form or shape peculiar to itself. Scientific, mechanical, and philosophical noses are long, prominent and bony, and where there is talent they are "broad on the back" as well. Musical noses are short, thick, round, soft, and muscular. Commercial noses are large, thick, long, with more muscle than bone, and of equal width the entire length, sometimes straight in outline and sometimes convex. Executive noses often presents a very high outline just below the the junction with the forehead. This nose is denominated the "Roman nose," and belongs to those who have naturally excellent ability as generals, leaders, superintendents, etc.

The largest noses known to modern times are, among commanders, those of Washington, Garibaldi, Cromwell, Wellington, Napoleon, Napier, Scott, Sherman, and Farragut; among statesmen, Lord Chatham, William Pitt, Lord Broughham, Jefferson, Jackson, Franklin, Thomas Paine, Metternich, Palmerston, John Adams and Gladstone. Observing the noses of poets, we find that here, as elsewhere, the largest belong to the most eminent. Observe, for example, those of Dante, Tasso, Dryden, Cowper, Shelley, Goethe, Pope, Schiller, Joanna Baillie, Byron, Tennyson, Longfellow and Whittier. This class of noses exhibits a straight outline in the descent from the forehead to the tip, and this form is characteristic of most writers of elegant literature.

Perhaps the most massive noses are found in the countenances of astronomers and philosophers. Among astronomers note the following: La Grange, De Lambre, Euler, Haller, Herschel and Proctor. Philosophers and scientists lead the world in regard to size of nose.

Old Sayings from a New Standpoint.

[Boston Transcript.]

"A rolling stone gathers no moss."

Time out of mind, a rolling stone has been censured for gathering no moss. But what of that? Is it not to its credit rather than to its disprahse? If it had lain idle all its life, it no doubt might have accumulated no end of moss. But its busy existence prevented its acquiring any such useless environment. True, the rolling stone gathers no moss, but it gathers something better, to wit, polish. Isn't polish to be preferred to cumbersome and useless moss? Avast there!

"Out of the frying-pan into the fire"

It is conventional to condemn the man who jumps out of the frying-pan into the fire. But, gentle reader, were you in the midst of the fervent fat of a frying-pan, would you not rather jump into the fire itself and have your anguish ended speedily and at once that to suffer the slow agony of being fried like a vulgar doughnut! Of course you would. Then never again speak a word against the judgment of this unknown martyr to expediency.

"Facts are stubborn things."

This may be true on general grounds, but we fancy that facts bearing on a political campaign are as pliant and yielding as boarding-house butter. We trust, therefore, that this severe characterization of facts in the abstract will give place to a more generous appreciation. It is no nearer the truth to say that all facts are stubborn things than to affirm that all stubborn things are facts.

"Faint heart ne'er won fair lady."

This is a libel on the faint heart. The modest, diffident, bashful man—that is to say, the faint heart—is always first to be won by the fair sex, which is the true way of saying that he is the first to win the fair sex; for be it known, that it is the woman and not the man who wins in the game of hearts. The man thinks he does, but he doesn't. It is true that the winnings are oftentimes hardly worth the taking; but be they good, bad or indifferent, the woman is the arbiter of man's matrimonial destiny every time; and the fainter the heart she assails, the easier her victory.

A Mercenary Parent.

[Texas Siftings.]

"Father, that young reporter you kicked out of the house last week wants me to share his lot," said a New York girl to her father, who was a man of sense and some means.

"Nonsense," replied the flat-headed parent; "you tell that reporter to scoot, and you be polite to that gentleman who comes around to buy bottles and old clothes. He makes more money in one day than three reporters do in a week."

"I know it, pa; but why are you so mercenary."

Amphibious.

They were discussing their natatorial capacity.

"Swim? Dive! Why, I can remain under water twenty minutes at a time."

"Only twenty minutes. Why, the other day I staid under water a whole hour. To be sure, it was because I fell into a dose and overslept myself, but still——" (The other liar faints.)

More Than Delighted.

Daughter—What did the doctor say ails me?

Mother—He thinks you have a touch of hay fever.

Daughter—Oh, isn't that delightfully fashionable! We must let those horrid Jones girls know of it right away."

A New Market.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES.

The Chief Commissioner injudiciously opposed Mr. Helgesen's resolution asking for a return of the lands (with ownership) in the neighborhood of the Coal Harbor terminus. Such a return forms part of the evidence required by the House in order that an intelligent opinion may be arrived at respecting the terminus negotiations. The evidence must come out, and the Government might well have agreed to produce it.

Mr. Raybould, anxious to find the bottom of the unfathomable Metlakahla odium theologium, obtained an order for a return of correspondence on the subject.

Bill relating to jurors, schools, innkeepers and coroners, were introduced and read a first time.

Mr. Grant's motion praying for the establishment of polling places at Port Essington and Lorne Creek, was carried.

The Provincial Secretary, in reply to Mr. Duck, stated that the illegal sale of James Bay lots was by order-in-council; and not being a lawyer, nor "in the confidence of the Government," added, "under authority of the Land Act, 1884." Mirabile dictu.

At 3 o'clock the Government like frozen out gardeners, pleaded "We've got no work to do," and the House adjourned to Thursday next.

CONVERSION OF THE "OLD MAN" OF THE COLONIST.

At last the Colonist has to a great extent conceded what his "juvenile and somewhat raw friend," THE TIMES, has advocated in regard to the "poor" squatters. It is pleasing to note that the "Old Man" is willing to drop his moss-covering and adopt the policy of his young friend. It is a source of gratification to us to see that the Colonist is now advising that the "poor" squatters claims should be dealt with in an honest and straightforward manner. We believe that such action on the part of the Government is all that is asked for by the parties interested. Heretofore, the "organ," on behalf of the Government, has ridiculed the idea of the squatters having any rights worth considering, but now they are prepared to grant them a petition of right; that in itself is a great concession, as a fiat is never issued unless the Government believes there is sufficient ground for such a decree.

The course taken by us in regard to the squatters does not clash with our opinions respecting the action of the Government concerning the lands at Coal Harbor and English Bay.

"NO THOROUGHFARE."

The Government yesterday afternoon in the Legislature pronounced that there is "No Thoroughfare" to the Land Registry Office, that is, when the interests of the James Bay quartette and its friends are interfered with. Mr. Helgesen, the senior member for Esquimalt, asked for information relative to sections of land in and about New Westminster District; but Chief Commissioner Smithe refused the information and the Attorney General bluntly stated that the Government had no right, any more than a private individual, to ask for information affecting private interests. So there is "No Thoroughfare" to a Government office, not even to the Government itself and thus the House voted the resolution down, 10 to 7. How would it have been had a government supporter moved the resolution? The boot would be on the other leg, the Registry door would have been wide open.

A TELEGRAPH message was, a few months ago, conveyed over seven thousand miles of continuous wire, from London to Calcutta.

ENGLAND'S PROSPECTIVE TIMBER SUPPLIES.

In a paper on "The present and prospective sources of the timber supplies of Great Britain," read recently by Mr. P. L. Simmonds at a meeting of the Society of Arts, presided over by Sir Charles Tupper, the supply of foreign woods was broadly divided into four classes. These are: "1. Ordinary soft woods of construction, consisting chiefly of pine and fir, obtained from North America and the north of Europe. 2. Shipbuilding woods, principally oak and teak, with small quantities of greenheart and mora from British Guiana, and a few Australian woods. 3. Hardwoods and furniture woods, which are at present very limited in number, though they might be largely increased by a little enterprise and judgment on the part of cabinet makers and dealers. 4. Dye woods. They are less important now than formerly, owing to the extensive employment of aniline dyes and the chemical improvements constantly making." Mr. Simmonds added: "There are ninety-five species of forest trees in Canada, of which Ontario, the most southerly of the provinces, has sixty-five. British Columbia is amply supplied with lumber, and, as its facilities for export increase, it must develope a large trade. The coast line of British Columbia, both on the island and mainland, is clothed with the finest lumber. The Douglas pine, with its straight uniform trunks, often 200 feet high, and exceedingly tough and flexible, furnishes the finest masts and spars for the largest vessels." Mr. Simmonds spoke of the attention that had been given of late to the preservation and reproduction of forests in Canada and other colonies. The immense importance of the extraneous supply of wood to Great Britain was shown by the trade reports of the last two years, which gave an excess in value of £18,000,000, while other forest products brought the total up to £31,500,000. The increase during the last forty years is shown by the fact that in 1844 the whole quantity of timber imported was under 1,500,000 loads, whereas in 1883 it exceeded 6,640,000 loads. Of that quantity only a little over 1,529,000 came from India and the colonies.

THE American Grocer has tables extending back fifteen years to show the reduction in the price of the necessaries of life. Sugar and coffee have been reduced about fifty per cent but much less than the average of the articles that make up the grocery list. Canned goods have fallen from one hundred to three hundred per cent.

A CURIOUS fact is observed that one day last week the temperature differed one hundred degrees in this country. At Florida Keys the thermometer registered seventy above and at Duluth thirty degrees below zero.

THE largest number of victims to cholera are said to be bachelors. A report has been published on the recent cholera epidemic in Paris from which is appears that the deaths of unmarried men were 836, against only 402 married men. From the age of 25 to 50 years, the rates were 422 against 170, and between the ages of 50 and 75 years the relations were 232 to 414. The most notable differences were in the ages of 40 to 45 years and 50 to 55 years, when the deaths showed 40 to 150 and 37 to 167.

THE total length of the route of the proposed Nicaragua canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific, is 173.57 miles. This is composed of 17.27 miles of canal, from the Pacific at Brito Harbor to the Lake of Nicaragua, 56.50 miles of lake navigation, 69.90 miles of navigation of the River San Juan, and 35.90 miles of canal from this river to Greytown. The estimated cost of this work is $41,193,839, or little more than $1 of capital against £1 in the estimate of M. Volsin for the Panama canal of forty-six and one-half miles in length.

A REPORT from Ottawa says that it is generally believed that by the end of the present fiscal year there will be a deficit in the Dominion Treasury. Three years ago the Government had a surplus of over $7,000,000, which the Minister of Finance said would be kept up. Returns published by the Government show the revenue to have fallen off during the past six months from $16,561,000 to $16,056,000, as compared with the last six months of 1883. In the face of this shrinkage of revenue expenditures were increased from $13,756,000 to $14,860,000, or nearly $1,200,000.

Bonded Goods.

Mr. Willis Bond was in tribulation yesterday morning, having been served with what he considered an austere document. This was a summons complaining of his removal of a stable on Courtenay street without the formal permission of the city council. Mr. Bond was present when the licensing court was adjourning, and as His Worship left the Bench, approached the Mayor to lodge a protest and explanation. With a plenitude of oratory, Mr. Bond was thoroughly equal for the occasion, but the Mayor stated the matter was not one pertaining to the functions of the Liquor Licensing Bench and declined to hear the complaint. Mr. Bond, with grim good nature, glistening eyes and sparkling teeth, next appeared in the City Clerk's office, where he remonstrated against the service of the summons, stating that he had complied, so far as possible, with the requirements of the by-law. But, it seems, that the application for the removal of the house had not been accompanied with the customary fee of $5, and hence the summons. The building had View Street for its destination, but its locus standi is now Courtenay Street, partially on the highway, where it awaits the decision of the Police Magistrate, to be given to-morrow. Bonded goods, suggests a wag at our elbow, should be permitted to pass free of duty.

Special Dispatches to THE TIMES.

Egyptian Affairs.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The St. James Gazette hears that England will solve the Egyptian troubles by assuming for a certain period entire administration of lower and middle Egypt, together with all financial responsibility, giving to the Sultan upper and equatorial Egypt, with any port or ports on the Red Sea and the mission of Hassan. Femi Pacha, Turkish Minister of Justice, is believed to be connected with the scheme for the partition of Egypt.

Troops for Suakim.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Gladstone will come to London to-morrow to attend a cabinet council. It is expected he will remain in London a few days. Another council was held at the War Office to-day on the Egyptian question. Orders have been sent transports at Suez to convey troops to Suakim.

Trade Depression.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—A notice is conspicuously posted in Monmouth forge and tin-plate works to-day, stating that the works will be suspended or workmen must accept reduced wages. The reason assigned is continued depression.

New Treaties.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Sir Chas. Dilke, President of the Government Board of Trade, attended a soiree at the Chamber of Commerce at Bradford last evening. In his address he referred to the negotiations in progress for commercial treaties with Spain and Mexico, and welcomed these fresh outlets for British trade. He said he was no apostle of protection.

Fire on Steamer.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The fire on the steamer Acumba, from Galveston for Bremen, which arrived off Dover, Jan. 15th, has been extinguished.

International & Colonial Exhibitions

ANTWERP IN 1885—LONDON IN 1886.

IT IS THE INTENTION TO HAVE A CANadian representation at the International Exhibition at Antwerp, commencing in May, 1885, and also at the Colonial and Indian Exhibition in London in 1886.

The Government will defray the cost of freight in conveying Canadian Exhibits to Antwerp, and from Antwerp to London, and also of returning them to Canada in the event of their not being sold.

All Exhibits for Antwerp should be ready for shipment not later than the first week in March next.

These exhibitions, it is believed, will afford favorable opportunity for making known the natural capabilities, and manufactures and industrial progress of the Dominion.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—Blockade raised—Elgin Butter arrived at Neufelder & Ross.

—The general meeting of the Vancouver Island Building Society will be held to-night.

—Advices from Puget Sound state that the weather is much the same there as here—snow, slush, raw winds and discomforture to travelers.

—The North Pacific to-day brought 295 head of sheep, 16 head of hogs, 20 tons of bonded goods and two tons of imported freight.

The old reliable steamer Eliza Anderson is doing a good passenger traffic now. She brought a large number of passengers to-day.

—New Westminster yesterday experienced a cold snap of 20 deg. above zero. The ice in the river is not welcomed by steamboat men.

—The cargo of the Rover of the Seas is pretty much all discharged. On the whole, the damage done by water in subduing the fire on board that vessel, was not very great.

—The annual ball of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society takes place on Friday evening. Already over one hundred tickets have been purchased and a joyous and fashionable gathering is anticipated.

—A meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held last night in the rooms of the association. Commencing with Sunday next gospel services will be held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, every Sabbath. Every Wednesday afternoon a young men's meeting will be held.

—The London Free Press quotes from Premier Smithe's remarks made at the late dinner of the Pioneers of British Columbia and adds: "The time is near at hand when British Columbia will be a source of both honor and profit to Canada."

—The tables, desks, chairs, etc., belonging to the city hall, were returned to the various rooms in that building to-day. The table which was taken out of the Police Court, was returned and the officials are no longer required to use a faro table in the hall of justice.

The North Pacific arrived to-day with the following passengers:—R Glenning, T D Timms, W Dufour, J Wolfe, G F Baldwin and wife, J Becker, J Brannan, Wm Burnell, W Farrar, C Butler, Theo Davie, H A Atkins, A W Vowell, F R Frazier, J Carr, J McNeill, and 25 Chinese.

—The Eliza Anderson to-day brought the following passengers from Seattle:—P McCubbin, G O Curran, J Galvan, R Evans, F McDonald, T S Jones, C Hess, W Burns, D L Wiseman, G Russ, M Marvin, G McGee, J S Morgan, Jas Philipps, J G Wright, J P Lowe, G P Vugren, C E Allen, M J Carkeek, J Rue, Jas Jones, Johan Smith, and four Chinese.

—The best way in which to break up the practice of snowballing would be for the parties so injured, (either personally or their property), to catch the offenders and march them off to jail where they could be turned over to the police authorities. There is no necessity for blaming the police officers. If every law abiding citizen would take the matter of arresting these hoodlums into his own hands, and turn them over to the chief, it is safe to presume the amusement would soon be abandoned.

A Book Social.

The Y.M.C.A. will move into their new quarters in the Galpin's block on Monday next. The following Monday the new rooms will be formally opened to the public by a "book social." There will be an entertainment on that evening and all who attend are expected to bring a book, which will be the admittance fee. These books will go toward increasing the library, and none but books of a suitable nature should be taken. Of course, if any one who attends the social desires to take more than one book, there will be no objection.

Commercial Travelers.

Mr. W. E. Van Horne, of the C. P. R., several days ago, received a deputation from the Commercial Travelers' Association, with reference to the rates on the western division of the C. P. Railway. They discussed very freely the excess baggage charges, and also the six-day stop over ticket. The deputation were very courteously received, and were promised that the matter would be looked into, and the 300 pounds of excess baggage was allowed on the whole line.

The Legal Circuit.

Can it be said that the removal of Mr. E. M. Johnson to Mr. Edwin Johnson's late office, and the change of premises of the firms of Johnson, Yates & Co. and that of Allsop & Mason, is a legal circuit? Such mobility is a matter for the full court. Soon one will not be able to find a lawyer or a real estate agent.

POLICE COURT.

(Before Edwin Johnson, Esq., S. M.)

Walter Leeny, drunk and disorderly. Forfeited $5 bail.

William Logan, drunk and disorderly; fined $1.25.

THE NEW CITY COUNCIL.

Committees Appointed—Routine Business Transacted.

The first meeting of the new city council was held last evening. Proceedings commencing at 7:30 o'clock. His Worship, Mayor Rithet in the chair, and a full board present.

The City Clerk having announced that the credentials of the Councilors were satisfactory, the minutes of the final meetings of the defunct council were read.

Councilor McKillican moved the adoption of the same.

TOO NARROW.

Councilor A. J. Smith said that according to the sidewalk by-law, there was no such thing as a three-foot sidewalk in width. The lowest width was, properly four-feet.

Councilor McKillican said there was no restriction.

Councilor W. A. Robertson said the old by-law had been adopted.

Councilor Ward asked whether by a vote in the affirmative, the present council adopted the action of the last council as to the vote of $2500 for the electric light.

His Worship said it would be well to be very careful in the matter.

Councilor Ward said he would suggest that the minutes be read, section by section, for adoption, because he was not prepared to vote $2500 for the electric light unless he knew there was a binding contract between the company and the corporation. He would move to this effect.

Councilor Grant seconded the amendment to the in toto adoption of the amendments and on a question of privilege asked that each councilor be furnished with complete copies of the municipal by-laws.

On the question being put the amendment of Councilor Ward was carried.

The clauses having been read and adopted seriatim up to the clause relative to the payment of $2500 for electric light, Councilor Ward suggested that the matter remain over or that a vote in the negative be taken.

Councilor Grant said that until knowing positively what position the city stood in with the electric light he would like to reserve to himself the right to deal with the question as it might come before the council, from time to time. (Hear, hear.)

Councilor Smith suggested that the Clerk read the resolution of the Council passed in July last.

Councilor W. A. Robertson said that under the by-law the Council had the power to take over the electric light and had done so.

Councilor McKillican moved that the clause in the minutes be deferred until Wednesday fortnight next.

Seconded by Councilor Teague and carried.

RULES OF ORDER RE-APPOINTED.

On motion of Councilor McKillican, By-law No. 6, the Rules of Order, was adopted as previously in force, and the inside officers of the Corporation were re-appointed as in 1884.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The report of the Health officer was read, relative to the existence of cesspools draining on the premises of Dr. Davie and probably causing typhoid amongst members of his family.

Ordered that the parties causing the nuisance be notified to abate it without the least delay.

THE BISHOP'S FENCE.

From the city surveyor (P. J. Leech), relative to the erection of a fence by Bishop Hills on the west side of Christ Church Cathedral, by which the public highway would be reduced in width.

Laid over for further consideration.

Accounts for election expenses were read and laid over for reference to the Finance Committee for payment, if found correct.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

His Worship said that he was aware that it had been customary for new mayors to make inaugural and eloquent speeches. But it was not his intention to do so, because he felt sure that the councilors before him were well acquainted with their duties and wanted no instructions from him. He would only ask that the committees would do all in their power to preserve harmony, and assist him to the best of their ability for the general welfare of the city.

Councilor McKillican moved that the portion of the sidewalk from Mr. W. Shears' house, James Bay to Dallas Road, be constructed in conformity with adjoining sidewalks.

Seconded by Councilor Smith and carried.

His Worship was then pleased to appoint the following committees:

Finance—Ward, Grant and Teague.

Street—Earle, Smith and Warner.

Water Works—Smith, Braden and Robertson.

Police and Pound—Robertson, Earle and McKillican.

Fire Wardens—Warner, Ward and Grant.

Sanitary—Braden, Smith and Warner.

Cemetery, Park and City Hall—McKillican, Teague and Braden.

Electric and Street Lighting—Grant Ward and Robertson.

Assessment Roll—Revision—Teague, Earle and McKillican.

Drainage System and Street Level—Earle, Smith and Teague.

Councilor Warner moved that the committees be confirmed. Carried.

Councilor Teague moved that the Corporation employ men to clear the sidewalks of snow, the limit of area being the fire limits.

Councilor Smith urged that James Bay bridge be also cleared. Carried.

The Mayor called the attention of the Fire Wardens to a report received by him as to the existence of a large quantity of hay stored in the centre of the city.

The Council then adjourned till Wednesday (to-morrow) at 7:30 p. m.

An Eastern Opinion.

The Hamilton Spectator says editorially:—"Hon. John Robson, of British Columbia, furnishes the Spectator with some literature that goes to show that the people of his province are away behind the age. The literature consists in handsomely printed and profusely illustrated pamphlets and newspapers, setting forth the great advantages of British Columbia, and inviting not only the farmer, but mechanic and laborer, to come and stay there. British Columbia must be a shockingly unenlightened province when it is laboring under the long exploded delusion that people are necessary to its progress and development. In Ontario, the most enlightened of all the provinces, the proposition to import a laborer or a mechanic would be very likely to bring about a civil war. We are sorry for British Columbia; but, as she undoubtedly has advantages, we would recommend the foolish people who left this province and went to Kansas and Dakota to give away their property and go on to British Columbia."

THE NORTH COUNTRY.

Fort Simpson and Queen Charlotte Islands.

FORT SIMPSON, Dec. 15, 1884.

Fort Simpson is a quaint little settlement. Behind it tower the high blue hills of British Columbia, and before it stretch the waters separating the Charlotte islands from the mainland. Near at hand are the forests, rich and rank, growing to the water's edge, covering the hillsides, clinging to rocky ledges that have a thin layer of soil scattered over their rough edges and wedged into their crevices. If the sun shines a rather exceptional thing for the light of day to do in this far-away region of clouds and heavy fogs—there is a bluish tinge hovering over the mountains and clinging to the waters that they say intensifies but never lightens. One who has seen the northwest can never think of it except as blue or foggy. The landscape rarely changes, if, indeed, it ever does. The trees are never bare, the grasses never withered. Winter and summer are merged together. There is snow on the mountains in winter, but rarely any at Fort Simpson, and the waters are never frozen. The Japan current warms the country that it touches and while the people of the town can see the cold, as suggested by the snow piled upon the neighboring peaks, they rarely feel it.

FEATURES OF THE PORT.

Fort Simpson is the principal trading post of the Hudson Bay Company on the Pacific coast. When first discovered by officers of the company the place was inhabited by the Saimpsheean Indians, one of the largest and most powerful of the native tribes of North America, from time immemorial. A few of their original houses are still standing near those which are occupied to-day. They are strongly built huts, made of huge logs, roughly hewn, and thick planks, split from enormous cedars, but all show hard usages of time and are far from comfortable to exist in. Along the shore, in front of the town, which is closely gathered about a central church, are the Indian canoes, without which no northwestern settlement would be complete. Some of them measure sixty feet in length, and are capable of carrying entire families about the neighboring islands. In earlier days, before steamers made the regular trips they do now between Victoria and Alaskan ports, the Indians of Fort Simpson used often to go in their canoes as far south as the straits of Fuca, and even now put out to sea in their boats, and are ever ready to trust their craft in the most boisterous weather.

FOREST-COVERED MOUNTAINS.

By leaving the Alaska-bound steamer at Fort Simpson one is within easiest reach of the Queen Charlotte islands. Their huge masses help to form the channel that leads from Queen Charlotte Sound into Dixon's entrance, and against their western shore beat the waves of the Pacific. Seen from a distance the islands are like mountains of deepest blue, tall and tree grown and rising abruptly from the surface of the surrounding seas. And even a nearer view does not remove the impression that they are hills that have been convulsively shot upward from watery depths and are liable at any time to sink back to the regions from which they came. Nearly the entire length of shore is abrupt. High cliffs of solid rock tower above the water line and only miniature floods are found in places into which one may sail and find a landing. Gathered upon the edges of the cliffs and reaching as far inland as the eye can see are the everlasting trees of British Columbia and Alaska, proverbially green and covering every inch of ground. So far as there is evidence to the contrary, the islands are forest covered mountains, wild, unbroken and utterly neglected. They are seventy miles from the Mainland and it is only at times that one can cross the sound to them from Port Simpson. Many a boat has gone down beneath the waves in attempting to cross and were all the bodies resurrected that have been lost in attempting the trip there would be quite an army ready to set sail over the cold blue waters that stretch about and beyond the isolated group.

UNDEVELOPED WEALTH.

But notwithstanding their seeming desertion and wildness the Queen Charlotte islands in reality contain many sheltered acres of richly producing country, and would, if properly cultivated, raise large quantities of vegetables. The soil is rich and the climate is mild. If cattle can be raised anywhere on all the islands that lie near the shores of British Columbia they can be on these named in honor of the almost forgotten Queen. The grasses are rich and abundant, and thanks to the Japan current the winters are mild and open. But at present the domestic animals are few, and the grasses are fed on by the mountain sheep that run in wild herds over the land. The islands contain large deposits of coal and other minerals still unmolested in their subterranean caverns, while the neighboring waters fairly swarm with cod, salmon, halibut and other fish. No canneries have as yet been established, but those conversant with the products of the water are never weary of telling inquisitive strangers how many fish there are, and what a fortune awaits any one who will build a cannery and make shipments to the south. "I can supply 'bout half the world," said one old salty individual, "with the fish 'round the Charlottes. You can't catch 'em as fast as they'll come." No doubt, in time, canneries will be built, if the stories regarding the supply are reliable, and the islands will be visited by the north-bound steamer on her every trip. It is only the spring time of activity yet, in the far north. The region is but just waking up. Men may speculate regarding the possibilities, but they are too vague and vast to be really understood. The Queen Charlotte group is only one of many others. Islands are as numerous as berries in a New England pasture, and each one has its mite of value. The extreme northwest is too big to be developed in a day. A quarter of a century will be required for even its partial development. The timber alone is worth a fortune to the Government, and the fish will sooner or later bring a revenue that will be astonishingly large. E. ROBERTS.

MARINE NOTES.

There are no vessels at Departure Bay at present.

The steamship Barnard Castle passed up last night from San Francisco.

The Alexander arrived in port this morning, having brought the ship Belvidere down to Esquimalt from Departure Bay. The ship is coal laden, bound to San Francisco.

The bark Lady Bowen will not be ready for sea for a couple of weeks. It was thought she was loaded and waiting for a tug, but a pilot who went up to take her down had to return.

Cattle Doing Well.

The Inland Sentinel says: "We learn coyotes are beginning to hang around houses and barns at night. The deep snow in the mountains makes it difficult for them to get food. Winters that are severe and kill off cattle and horses are favorable to coyotes, for they soon find the carcasses. Notwithstanding the cold snap of late we have not heard of any cattle perishing."

FROM THE NORTH.

Arrival of the Otter—Metlakahtla Troubles Reviving.

The Otter, which arrived from the north yesterday brought 142 barrels of salt salmon, 10,000 feet of yellow cedar for Muirhead & Mann, the material for 200 boxes for Mr. Smith, Fort street, and six bales of furs. She had in tow the schooner Skeena, owned by Mr. R. Cunningham, of Port Essington, and took six days to make the run to Victoria, the trip being the roughest experienced by Mr. Cunnington in twenty years. Among the passengers was

AN INDIAN PRISONER,

Arrested for breaking into the store of Turner, Beeton & Co., at Inverness, and abstracting several hundred dollars worth of goods, which were found in his possession and recovered. The

OLD FEUD

At Metlakahtla is again reviving, and at fairs are still in a most unsatisfactory condition. After Mr. Duncan and his companions left for Victoria on the Satellite, perfect peace prevailed on the coast, as in days gone bye. The two opposing parties joined together in singing Christmas carols, and were as harmonious and friendly as though there never had been any interruption to the cordial feeling of friendship that once existed amongst them. On Christmas Eve, the two factions assembled in front of the bishop's door and sang God save the Queen. There did not seem to be a discontented spirit in the crowd, and they all shook hands and expressed themselves satisfied that their differences were over. But

A CHANGE HAS

"Come over the spirit of their dream" since then. About New Year's day, upon the arrival of the Teaser with Mr. Duncan and the Indians, the council was assembled at the call of the bugle. It is understood that it was then decided to invite the Fort Simpson and Naas Indians to combine, with the object of pressing their claims on the Government. These claims are nothing less than the possession of all the land. The white residents have also been credibly informed, and generally believe, that it was resolved at that meeting that in future the Indians would conduct their own affairs and ignore the authority of the Government Indian Agent. The promise previously given that they would suspend improvements on the land in dispute until the differences were settled by the action of the commission

HAS BEEN VIOLATED,

And under the sanction of the council, houses are being built and other improvements are being made. The Bishop's party are remaining quiet, and are adhering strictly to the agreement arrived at. As might be expected, there is a growing feeling of uneasiness among the merchants and traders who have vested interests in the neighborhood of Metlakahtla. They begin to feel that their property and their persons are not safe, and they purpose holding a meeting to discuss the situation. They feel that they are entitled to the protection of the Government, and will hold them responsible for the injuries or losses that may be received in the event of a disruption. The Indians have been boasting that the country is their's and white men are not wanted there. The Indian council has also appointed two of their number—Messrs. M. Hilton and Leegnic—as Justices of the Peace and will retain the government prison to confine their prisoners. This is certainly disquieting news. The commission has reported to the government, and it now lies with the latter to take decisive action to establish its authority and make its power respected among the Metlakahtla malcontents, be they either "untutored savages" or designing white men who pander to Indian prejudices.

TWENTY MINERS

Are wintering at Port Essington. They purpose starting for Lorne Creek on the first of February; some of them will proceed to the country where the strike was made by Madden last fall. Even the miners are losing confidence in the ability of the government to protect them, and are quietly talking among themselves about buying pistols and rifles. If they can't trust in the powers that be, they will, the say, keep their powder dry and trust in themselves.

Selling Liquor Along the C. P. R.

We have reason for believing that a good deal of liquor, (or what is called liquor), is being sold along the railway, especially about Eagle Pass, contrary to law, says the Kamloops Sentinel. Mr. Todd was appointed, we understand, to prevent as much as possible the evil complained of, and do what was necessary to prevent interference with the progress of the railway construction. It is true Mr. Todd has been up and down the line, but the whisky peddlers manage to keep out of the way of a well-known officer of the law, and no arrangement has been made to furnish necessary assistance to watch and arrest the evil-doers. Certainly something more than the appointment of a vigilant officer is required to look after over a hundred miles of line, along which there are so many hiding places. If the Government are in earnest in this matter something like the assistance tendered to stipendiary magistrates above and below Winnipeg is required. If Mr. Todd, or any other officer, is denied necessary means we may expect to hear of selling whisky out of company boarding houses as was the case east of Yale some time since.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

(THE TIMES wishes it to be distinctly understood that it is in no way responsible for, and does not necessarily agree with its correspondents.)

Hastings Town Site Sales.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

Sir,—I am much surprised to see Mr. Byrnes denial in your paper that he said at the time of the sale, by auction of the Hastings town site, that "he was authorized to state that the terminus of the Canadian Pacific railway would be on the property then offered for sale by him." He certainly did so state in a somewhat lengthy speech, as many people present can testify. He was extremely nervous at the time and probably forgot to quote correctly from the original M. S., mentioned by him. Yours, &c.

ONE WHO WAS PRESENT.

A Winnipeg Auctioneer Arrives.

Mr. Joseph Wolf, of Winnipeg, a gentleman who has perhaps "knocked down" more corner lots and sold more virgin cities than any other man in the northwest, arrived to-day on the steamer North Pacific. Mr. Wolf is a member of the firm of Secones & Wolf, auctioneers and estate agents, Winnipeg, and will probably establish a branch of the firm in this city. To a TIMES reporter, Mr. Wolf stated that the eyes of the entire population of Manitoba and of the States and Territories immediately to the south of it are being directed to the advantages offered to settlers by this Province, and with the completion of the Canadian Pacific railway he anticipates a large stream of immigration. He also expects a large influx of capital from the east, for investment here and at the terminus.

LIQUOR LICENSING COURT.

Transfers for the New Year.

The adjourned quarterly meeting of the Liquor Licensing Court, was held at the City Hall at noon to-day, His Worship Mayor Rithet, Edwin Johnson, Esq., P. M., and George Morrison and Thomas Shotbolt, Esqs., J. P's., being on the bench.

An application was made by John Wilson (late of the Garrick's Head) for a retail liquor license for the Albion Hotel, Store street. Mr. J. P. Walls appeared in support of the application. The applicant already held a transferred license to sell beer, but the question was now raised as to whether a petition should not accompany an application for a retail liquor license.

Mr. Walls quoted the last municipalities act to show that such was unnecessary. The license was granted.

The application for a transfer from Geo. E. Smith to F. Dawley, corner of Government and John streets, was laid over until the next meeting of the court. His Worship stated that he was informed that the license was originally for a grocery, but now the place was virtually a saloon, the windows being frosted and there being no appearance of a grocery. As a rule groceries did not frost over their windows. His Worship would ask the Chief of the City Police to report on the premises before the next meeting of the Court. The holder of the license, (Mr. Smith) should have been in attendance.

ST. CHARLES HOTEL.

An application was read from Mr. Adams, for a new license for the St Charles Hotel, corner Yates and Douglas streets.

His Worship said that the license was, as he was informed, now held by Mr. Tierney, and no application had been received from him for a transfer.

Mr. Mills said he had been consulted in the matter and was of opinion that by obtaining a license in his name (Mr. Adams) he (Mr. Adams) hoped to get Mr. Tierney out of possession.

His Worship—We cannot deal with that. Let them settle their grievances in the proper Court. The application is refused by the bench.

THE QUEEN CHOP HOUSE.

Application from Mr. J. Brink to sell beer and porter with meals at the Queen Chop House on Yates street.

His Worship—What are the usual terms?

Mr. Russell—The license is $25 for six months. The applicant previously had a temporary license.

Mr. Mills appeared in support of the application and said that whilst the application was at present only for beer and porter, still it was the intention of Mr. Brink to apply to the next court for a retail liquor license.

His Worship (after consultation)—The application is granted for beer and porter, but we can't give you any encouragement for a retail liquor license. You are trying, Mr. Mills, to get in the thin end of the wedge. (Laughter.)

Mr. Mills—We have got that in already. (Renewed laughter.)

Application from John Bartlett for a transfer of license for the Ship Inn, Wharf street, to William Scott. Granted.

Application from the trustees of the estate of Wm. Reid, White Horse Hotel, Humboldt street, to John Walsh. Granted.

Superintendent Bloomfield said, in reference to the transfer of the license to Barleman for the Palace saloon, it had been made without any notification to the police, and consequently in this and possibly similar circumstances the police were placed at a disadvantage as to knowledge of the new license holders and their respectability. Strangers could now come into the city and run a saloon without any knowledge to the police of their antecedents. He would suggest that a residence of, say, six months, be necessary before holding a legal license, and he hoped the Bench would assist the police in this respect.

His Worship—The precaution is a very good one and the Bench will see that the police are assisted.

A transfer was then granted from R. Borthwick to Messrs. Worth & McGee, no objection being raised.

The court adjourned until the next quarterly meeting in March.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Third Session.—Fourth Provincial Parliament.

MONDAY, Jan. 19, 1885.

NOTICES OF MOTION.

Mr. Semlin—That a select committee be appointed to inquire into the claims of settlers on the lands proposed to be transferred by the Provincial Government to the Canadian Pacific railway syndicate, said committee to be composed of Messrs Cunningham, Wilson, Martin, Helgesen and the mover, and to have power to send for persons and papers and to report to this House.

Mr. Pooley—To ask the Chief Commissioner "what has become of the $10,000 deposited with the Local Government by Messrs McNamee & Co., as a guarantee for the carrying out of their contract for the building of the Esquimalt dock?

Mr. Orr—That a respectful address be presented to the Lieut.-Governor praying that additional polling places may be established at the following places—Sapperton, Fort Moody, Lehman's Landing, Moodyville and T. Harrison's, Clover Valley.

Mr. Orr—That an order of this House be granted for a return of all papers and correspondence relating to the appointment of a resident physician for the asylum for the insane at New Westminster.

Mr. Drake—To ask leave to introduce a bill to amend the qualification and representation of Voters' Act, 1876.

Mr. Drake—To ask the Hon. Mr. Smithe "is it the intention of the Government during the present session to bring in a bill to amend the constitution act so as to give the district of New Westminster increased representation in this house."

Mr. Martin—That an address be presented to the Lieut.-Governor that an additional polling place be established in the electoral district of Yale at Eagle Pass Landing.

Mr. Martin—To ask the Provincial Secretary what reply, if any, has been obtained from the Dominion authorities to a resolution of this house, passed on Jan. 14, 1884, in reference to the Indian reserves of British Columbia.

Mr. Semlin—To ask the Chief Commissioner "is the government in receipt of a petition from the people of Yale and Lillooet districts in favor of an appropriation for the construction of a wagon road from Lytton to Lillooet."

Congratulations.

Our congratulations are extended to Mr. G. F. Baldwin, of THE TIMES staff, upon the occasion of his marriage to Miss Minnie L. Higgins, an accomplished young lady of Portland, Or. The ceremony was performed in Tacoma yesterday, and Mr. Baldwin and his bride arrived in Victoria to-day. We wish them a long life of unalloyed happiness.

FROM KOOTENAY.

Very Severe Weather Experienced—No Loss of Stock—Plenty of Snow.

A Vowell, Esq., gold commissioner, arrived in the city from Kootenay to-day. To a representative of THE TIMES Mr. Vowell stated that there was nothing very startling to chronicle from that district, except that it was terribly cold when he left. He traveled eleven days between Kootenay and Sand Point on snow shoes, and had to camp out each night.

SEVERE SNOW STORMS

Have prevailed during the past three weeks. Nothing new has transpired in the Baird murder, the murderer not having been captured. Some distance south of Kootenay it rained to some extent which had the effect of forming a crust over the ice. Should the same weather prevail further north Mr. Vowell thinks it would make it very bad for stock. When he left Kootenay there had been no loss of stock reported, and none is anticipated, should the weather remain as it has up to the date of his departure. Mr. Vowell traveled

SOME DISTANCE ON SNOW SHOES

And experienced an extremely unpleasant journey, as the hardships which he was compelled to endure on one or two occasions were not of a trifling nature.

KOOTENAY MINING CO.

The machinery for the mining and milling company is expected to arrive very shortly. The company are constructing a wagon road as rapidly as possible, and are conducting their affairs in a strictly business-like manner. Mr. Vowell traveled entirely alone a portion of his journey over the frozen snow, and as might be expected, is pretty well tired out. He will probably remain in the city several weeks.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Theo. Davie arrived home from England by the Sound steamer to day.

Mr. Joseph Wolf, of Winnipeg, arrived to-day and is registered at the Driard.

Mr. C. E. Allen, of San Francisco, arrived in this city to-day and is at the Driard.

Mr. L. Harmon, foreman of the Moodyville sawmill is in the city, stopping at the Oriental.

Mr. Thos D. Tims, Inspector of Dominion Finances, arrived from Ottawa to-day and is at the Driard.

Mr. Wm. Dufour, of Winnipeg, arrived on the North Pacific to-day, and is stopping at the Driard.

Mr. George W. Burns, of San Francisco, arrived in the city this afternoon, and is stopping at the Driard.

Mr. William Burnell, freight agent of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway for British Columbia and Washington Territory, arrived on the steamer North Pacific to-day, and is at the Driard.

Mr. A. W. Vowell, gold commissioner, arrived on the steamer North Pacific to-day, having come from Kootenay. Mr. Vowell is the guest of Sir Matthew Begbie.

Edmund Orton has returned from Australia, where he went at the instigation of Georgia Baring, daughter of one of the Baring Bros., of London, for the purpose of identifying Arthur Orton, who is confined in the Paramatta lunatic asylum at Sydney, his brother. He states that he did identify him to be such, and is therefore thoroughly convinced that the claimant recently discharged from prison in London is really Roger Tichborne, heir to the Tichborne estate. The real Arthur Orton, who is now in Australia, will be taken to London to further establish the identity.

THE ENGINEER'S STORY.

[W. Wilkins.]

We were driving the down express—
Will at the steam, I at the coal—
Over the valleys and villages!
Over the marshes and coppices!
Over the river, deep and broad!
Through the mountains! under the road!
Flying along! tearing along!
Thunderbolt engine, swift and strong,
Fifty tons she was, whole and sole!
I had been promoted to the express:
I warrant you I was proud and gay.
It was the evening that ended May,
And the sky was a glory of tenderness.
We were thundering down to a midland town—
It makes no matter about the name—
For we never stopped there, or any where
For a dozen miles on either side:
So it's all the same—
Just there you slide
With your steam shut off, and your brakes in hand,
Down the steepest and longest grade in the land
At a pace that I promise you is grand.
We were just there with the express,
When I caught sight of a muslin dress
On the bank ahead; and as we past
You have no notion of how fast—
A girl shrank back from our baleful blast.

We were going a mile and a quarter a minute
With vans and carriages down the incline,
But I saw her face, and a sunshine in it,
I look'd in her eyes, and she looked in mine
As the train went by, like a shot from a mortar,
A roaring hell-breath of dust and smoke;
And I mused for a minute and then awoke,
And she was behind us a mile and a quarter.

* * * * * *

And I often saw her—that lady I mean
That I spoke of before. She often stood
A-top o' the bank; it was pretty high—
Say twenty feet, and back'd by a wood.
She would pick the daisies out of the green,
To fling down at us as we went by.
We had got to be friends, that girl and I,
Though I was a rugged, stalwart chap,
And she a lady! I'd lift my cap,
Evening by evening, when I'd spy
That she was there, in the summer air,
Watching the sun sink out of the sky.

Oh, I didn't see her every night;
Bless you! no; just now and then,
And not at all for a twelvemonth quite.
Then, one evening I saw her again,
Alone, as ever, but deadly pale.
And down on the line, on the very rail,
While a light, as of hell, from our wild wheels broke,
Tearing down the slope with their devilish clamors
And deafening din, as of a giant's hammers
That smote in a whirlwind of dust and smoke
All the instant or so that we sped to meet her
Never, O never, had she seem'd sweeter!

I let yell the whistle, reversing the stroke
Down that awful incline, and signal'd the guard
To put on his breaks at once and HARD—
Though we couldn't have stopped. We tatter'd the rail
Into splinters and sparks, but without avail.
We couldn't stop; and she wouldn't stir,
Saving to turn us her eyes, and stretch
Her arms to us; and the desperate wretch
I pitied, comprehending her.
So the brakes let off, and the steam full a, ain,
Sprang down on the lady the terrible train—
She never flinched. We beat her down,
And ran on through the lighted length of the town
Before we could stop to see what was done.

Oh, I've run over more than one!
Dozens of 'em, to be sure, but none
That I pitied as I pitied her—
If I could have stopped, with all the spur
Of the train's weight on, and cannily—
But it wouldn't do with a lad like me
And she a lady—or had been. Sir!
Who was she! Best say no more of her.
The world is hard; but I'm her friend—
Stanch, sir—down to the world's end.
It is a curl of her sunny hair
Set in this locket that I wear.
I picked it off the big wheel there.
Time's up, Jack. Stand clear, sir. Yes;
We're going out with the express.

DIAMONDS FOR DRILLS.

The Apparatus by Which Deep Rock Boring Is Accomplished.

"Diamonds are comparatively cheap nowadays," a rock-drill manufacturer said to a reporter, "and the diamond-set bits used in the diamond drills do not cost as much as they did."

"Are genuine diamonds used in these drills, or are they called diamond drills because the steel has an extremely hard temper?" the reporter asked.

"Diamonds are used in the drills. They are chiefly one and two carat stones. At present they cost about $30 a carat. They are in the rough. The diamond-set is hollow. It is a steel thimble, having three rows of diamonds imbedded in it, so that the edges of those in one row project from its face, while the edges of those in the other two rows project from the outer and inner peripheries respectively. The diamonds of the first-mentioned row cut the path of the drill in its forward progress, while those on the outer and inner periphery of the tool enlarge the cavity."

"Do the diamonds wear out?"

"Their edges which come in contact with the rock get a little smooth, and then they are taken out and reset, so that a fresh edge is presented."

"How are the diamond drills worked?"

"By a rapid rotation, varying anywhere from 400 to 1,000 revolutions a minute. There are different machines used for different kinds of drilling. For deep boring a machine with a double oscillating cylinder engine is used, mounted on an upright or horizontal tubular boiler. The machine has a screw shaft made of heavy hydraulic tubing from five to seven feet in length, with a deep screw cut in the outside. The shaft also carries a spline, by which it is feathered to the lower sleeve gear. This gear is double, and connects by its upper teeth with a beveled driving gear, and by its lower teeth with a release gear, which is a friction gear, and is fitted to the lower end of the feed shaft, to the top of which a gear is feathered, fitting to the upper gear on the screw shaft, which has one or more teeth less than the upper gear on the feed shaft, whereby a differential feed is produced. This friction gear is attached to the bottom of the feed shaft by a friction nut, producing a combined differential and frictional feed, which renders the drill perfectly sensitive to the character of the work through which it is passing, and maintaining a uniform pressure. The drill rod, made of heavy lapweld tubing, passes through the screw-shaft and is held firm by a chuck at the bottom of the screw-shaft. To the lower end of this tubular boring-rod the bit is screwed, and to the upper is a watch swivel, to which connection is made with a steam-pump. You can see by this that the machine is very simple and not likely to get out of order."

What They Were Doing.

[Burlington Free Press.]

"How beautiful those two old people look, sitting together at the fireside!" exclaimed a sentimental young lady. "I wonder what they are talking about!" "Probably fighting their battles o'er again," replied her matter-of-fact companion.

George Eliot: I'm no friend to young fellows a-marrying afore they know the difference atween a crab an' a apple; but they may wait o'er long.

Professor Hutson: Woman has a work to accomplish in this life, and the highest chivalry in man is to let her perform it herself.

Hardened Liver.

Five years ago I broke down with kidney and liver complaint and rheumatism.

Since then I have been unable to be about at all. My liver became hard like wood; my limbs were puffed up and filled with water.

All the best physicians agreed that nothing could cure me. I resolved to try Hop Bitters; I have used seven bottles; the hardness has all gone away from liver, the swelling from my limbs, and it has worked a miracle in my case; otherwise I would have been now in my grave.

J. W. MORSE, Buffalo, Oct. 1, 1881.

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring.

I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I commenced using Hop Bitters, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one dollar's visit will cost.
